AUDIOBOOM (BOOM.L)
Revenue and KPI growth; positive outlook

Interim results demonstrate further revenue and KPI growth for Audioboom, the provider of an end to end podcast and digital audio platform, but also the disruption of the aborted Triton Digital acquisition. This transaction absorbed management time, restricted investment into new podcasts and the H1 balance sheet was left stretched with negative net assets of £0.4m (FY17: £3.4m). The balance sheet has been strengthened with June's placing of up to £4.5m plus the £1.5m loan note conversion. Funds will be used to expand existing relationships with the likes of Spotify and Google; increase the volume of higher margin Audioboom Original Network (AON) content; acquire more third-party podcasts; and invest in its new buy-side media agency. No change to forecasts following June's re-initiation.

- Financial highlights – Revenue increased 43% to £2.6m with adj. LBITDA reduced £0.4m to £2.2m and a further improvement expected in H2. Net cash as at 30th June was £2.6m (H1 FY18: net debt £1.2m) having cleared overdue trade payables and the costs of the aborted Triton transaction (£1.2m). The final £0.4m of the placing proceeds is conditional on HMRC approval of BOOM's VCT status.
- KPIs – Total H1 UFRs increased 14.5% to 372m, monthly unique users in May were 87m (+7.4%), H1 available ad impressions were 1,241m (+57.3%) and content partner channels increased 23.0% to 14,566. The latter has increased despite the introduction of charges for smaller podcasters – there were 1,577 paying podcasters at H1. Pricing is also improving with eCPM +33% sequentially to $19.02 - significantly higher than the rates associated with other digital media – and the number of brand advertisers has more than doubled to 130 as more brands are drawn to the medium.
- AON progress – Good traction demonstrated with Audioboom's owned and operated content that offers higher margin returns compared to hosting established third party podcasts. AON shows continue to grow with listens up 33% to 2.13m to June 2018 and AON H1 revenue was $0.2m.
- Formula 1 podcast – First episode of the recently launched Beyond the Grid, a co-production with Formula 1 and sponsored by Bose, peaked at number two in the UK podcast chart and has also charted in other countries.
- Outlook – Outlook remains positive with an increasing number of podcast listeners, more consumption per listener, a proliferation of content and a wider range of listening options. We expect a significant growth in H2 revenue with good visibility on Q3 and Q4 advertising campaigns and new AON content plus ongoing cost control.
